Bradley's a poster boy

Pupil wins contest for anti-dog fouling image

By JON LIVESEY

Anti-dog fouling posters designed by a 10-year-old boy are being displayed in a 'hot spot' area near his school in a bid to stamp out the problem.

Bradley Clark won a competition to come up with an anti-dog fouling poster.

His colourful designs have now been turned into a huge banner, which will be hung outside Castercliff Community Primary School, in Nelson.

The competition was run by the area's dog welfare team and could now be repeated at other schools which have a similar problem.

Dog welfare officer Laura Robinson hopes the action will persuade dog owner's to act more responsibly and pick up after their pets.

She said: "The area around the school is sometimes spoiled by dog fouling and we tend to pick up quite a lot of stray dogs there too.

"By teaching the children how to care for their pets, we hope that the message will be passed on to parents and grandparents as well."

Officers Laura and Kat Bullas set Year 5 and 6 pupils the poster challenge after several visits to the school.

Headteacher Ian Chester said: "The children have got to know them well, they look forward to them coming and enjoy their company.

"Their visits have certainly helped to raise the children's awareness of pet care and the responsibilities that dog ownership brings.

"They have also been the prompt for a lot of discussion."

As part of his prize for winning the competition, Bradley received a t-shirt with his design printed on it. He will also receive a family ticket to see a film at The ACE Centre, Nelson.

Staff get on their bikes

Burnley Council staff are getting on their bikes to do their bit for the planet.

The council joined the 'Bikes for Staff' scheme last year, which allows employees to save up to 49 per cent on the price of a new bicycle.

The scheme works by taking monthly payments direct from staff salaries.

Bikes can be sourced either by mail order, or from participating local shops.

Posters urging football fans to substitute an alcoholic drink with a soft drink are being displayed in pubs as part of a campaign to tackle booze-related crime this World Cup.

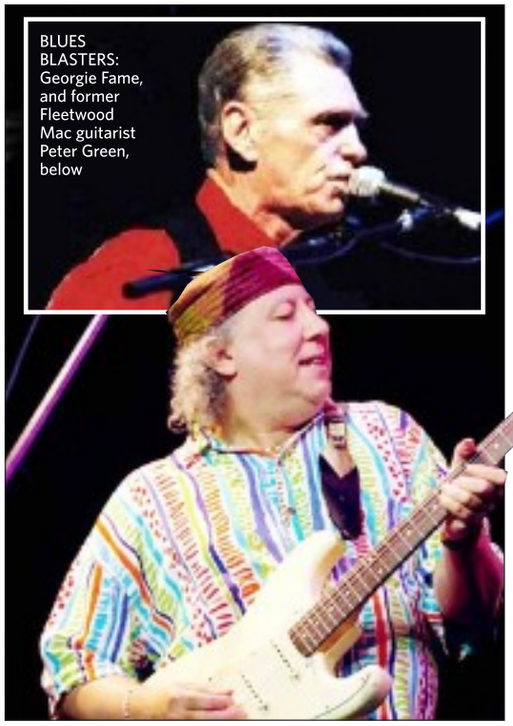
MP pays tribute

New Pendle MP Andrew Stephenson has praised the work of his predecessor in his opening speech to Parliament.

In the speech, Mr Stephenson praised Gordon Prentice, calling him 'principled' and 'committed'. He also paid tribute to the work of SELRAP, Nelson and Colne College, and spoke about the number of quality manufacturing firms in the borough.

Blues fest bands are ready to rock



BLUES BLASTERS: Georgie Fame, and former Fleetwood Mac guitarist Peter Green, below

By JON LIVESEY

An all-star line-up has been unveiled for the 21st annual Great British Rhythm and Blues Festival.

More than 600 acts from across the globe will perform at eight official venues over four days at the Colne event, which is the biggest of its kind in this country and the second largest in Europe.

Last year around 25,000 music lovers descended on Pendle for the festival, lining the pockets of local shops and businesss with £2million.

And organisers hope this year's festival, from Friday August 27 until Monday 30, will be just as big a hit.

R&B heavyweights including Peter Green, Georgie Fame, Chris Farlowe and Sandi Thom, who scored a Number One in the UK singles chart with I Wish I Was A Punk Rocker in June 2006, will all take to the Muni's International Stage over the Bank Holiday weekend.

Jetting in from the USA will be Omar and The Howlers, Magic Slim and The Teardrops, the Popa Chubby Band and the Larry Garner Band.

Highlights on the British Stage include Chantel McGregor, the Mitch Laddie Trio, the Frank White Band and Cliff Stocker's legendary Slack Alice.

Organiser Alison Goode said: "The feedback we have had from fans so far has been fantastic. Almost 40 per cent of the tickets we have sold already have been bought by people who have never been to the festival before."

Local musicians will perform on the Jessica Foxley Stage, in memory of the 21-year-old singer who died in a car crash last July.

A discount will be offered on tickets bought before Saturday.

Cash bid for wind turbine

By TYRONE MARSHALL

Burnley's new MP is hoping to push for Government funding to bring the development of a wind turbine to the town, creating hundreds of jobs.

Academics at the University of Central Lancashire's (UCLan) Burnley Campus have helped to create what they believe to be the most efficient wind turbine in the world.

They have secured European funding to carry on with the research and development and are in talks with Burnley-based aerospace giant Aircelle to create a real-life version of the model.

Mr Birtwistle praised the work done by the campus.

"To have something so significant like this in Burnley is magnificent," he said.

"As everybody knows we do not make wind turbines in this country, we buy them from abroad, but unfortunately the previous Government didn't want to support the scheme."

Martin Brown, principal of UCLan's Burnley Campus, said: "The research has focused on engineering and sustainability. We have had funding to carry on with the work and have bids in for more funding. The Burnley Campus has taken a keen interest in the work with its advanced manufacturing centre on site."

JOBS BOOST: Gordon Birtwistle

Mr Birtwistle said he would push the new Government to support the scheme, and provide a huge boost to the town.

"It would create hundreds, if not thousands, of jobs, if we could reach a stage to fully develop the wind turbine.

"It needs about £4million of investment and I will push to get it back on the agenda with the Government."

Railings deterrent

By JON LIVESEY

Youths who congregate on King George V Playing Fields in Colne will have to find a new place to 'hang out' once railings are installed.

According to Pendle's parks bosses, people who live in Skipton Road, near the fields, have had to put up with groups of youths, who sit on a wall engaging in anti-social behaviour.

Councillors on the borough's Colne committee have given the go-ahead to residents plans for railings on the wall to stop the trouble-makers using it as a seat.

The playing fields have been plagued by anti-social yobs for a number of years.

Two years ago vandals went on a rampage in the sports clubhouse, smashing the toilets before ripping pipes from the walls. In the same incident the floors at the pavilion were flooded, and toilet mirrors and walls were smashed with a sledgehammer.

Town hall chiefs hope the railings will put an end to problems. Colin Patten, Pendle's parks and recreation manager, said: "By installing stub railings to the top of the existing dwarf stone wall along the frontage of Skipton Road, youths will be unable to use the wall top as a seating area preventing them from antagonising local residents whose property face the open space."

The Committee allocated £15,000 to pay for the railings.

Love your electricals, and set them free, this Recycle Week

Has your kettle run out of steam? Is your TV facing the final credits? Many of us are already recycling everyday items such as newspapers, cans and plastic bottles. But did you know that old and unused electrical items can also become useful again?

This Recycle Week, running from 21st to 27th June, is focusing on small electrical items, that means anything with a battery or plug: from broken toasters and kettles gathering dust in the loft, to old mobile phones in drawers and disused power tools cluttering up the garage, all can be re-used or recycled.

Each of us accumulates three new electrical items each year on average, or 173 million nationally, but we find it harder to let them go as only one in five gets recycled.

Broken electricals contain valuable materials such as silver that can be used again, saving precious new resources. Many that are disused after an upgrade could find a new home somewhere else.

Jane Hall from Recycle Now said: "Recycle Week is a great opportunity to remind us just how easy it is to recycle, reduce or reuse the waste we generate. This year, why not give your old electricals a new lease of life? Whether it's old power tools in the garage or kids' toys in a cupboard, sometimes it's hard to part with things that seem too valuable to throw away. Visit www.recyclenow.com today to find out how your old electricals can realise their value once again either by being recycled into something new, or being donated to charity and going on to find a new home"

Recycle Week's 'Love your electricals: set them free' campaign will show people how they can part with their once-loved possessions to give them a new life.

Follow our top tips for recycling below, visit the Recycle Now website at www.recyclenow.com and let's waste less together this Recycle Week.

Simple ways to make a BIG difference this Recycle Week

We can all help make scarce resources last by recycling them, letting someone else use them again or through a bit of planning before you buy. Here are a few simple things you could try this Recycle Week

Get clued up – find out what you can recycle and where by going to www.recyclenow.com

Many councils now collect all types of plastic bottles, including shampoo and shower gel bottles from your bathroom.

Remember that clothes in good condition could be put to good use by someone else: donate them to your nearest textiles bank or charity shop.

Are you planning a summer picnic or BBQ? Make the most of your food with our Perfect Portions planner. Go to www.lovefoodhatewaste.com for tasty recipes and much more.

Start composting this Recycle Week! Collect your fruit and vegetable peelings, garden trimmings and grass clippings in a compost bin and in a few months you'll have free food for your pots and garden.

How to declutter your e-clutter

It can be confusing to know which small electricals can be recycled, but it's easy: if it has a mains cable or uses replaceable batteries or needs charging, then you can recycle it. Look out for the crossed-out wheelie bin logo on it too.

Uncover those hidden gadgets from your home, and if they can still switch on, why not take them along to one of over 90 British Heart Foundation stores across the UK, and help raise money for charity at the same time. To find your nearest BHF Furniture and Electrical store or for more information please visit www.bhf.org.uk/recycle

For old or broken small electricals sitting unused in your house, the best thing is to take it to your local recycling centre: visit www.recyclenow.com to find your nearest drop off point.

Look out for events organised by your local authority, and visit the Recycle Now website www.recyclenow.com for all the latest information.

Find out if your local school is collecting pledges to recycle – get pledging and your school could be in for a prize!

If you've upgraded your mobile, you can use the Royal Mail's Simply Drop® service to recycle the old one. Visit the website at www.simplydrop.co.uk/recycleweek to register your mobile phone, MP3 player, camera or Smart phone, and follow the simple step-by-step process. You could receive some cash in return!

Training camp is ace for kids

Tim Henman had an outstanding tennis career, and is now running a two-day tennis training camp to celebrate the 75-year partnership between drinks-makers Robinsons and the Wimbledon Championships. He is also part of the BBC's commentary team for Wimbledon which began this week.

60 SECONDS WITH ... TIM HENMAN

HOW HAS THE TWO-DAY TRAINING CAMP FOR YOUNG TENNIS PLAYERS GONE SO FAR?

It's going great. I think it's a great opportunity, and I think it's a great initiative that Robinsons have put together this year. It's their 75th anniversary sponsoring the tournament which is no mean feat in itself. And to give the opportunity for 75 kids to come and play at Wimbledon, do the coaching clinic and have a look around is great.

HAVE YOU UNEARTHED ANY HOT PROSPECTS?

Yeah, I've just been on the court for the last hour or so and you can see some kids with that natural athletic ability, and hand-eye co-ordination. That's what you want to see.

DURING YOUR CAREER YOU CARRIED BRITISH HOPES ON YOUR SHOULDERS AND NOW IT'S ANDY'S TURN; HOW DIFFICULT IS THAT KIND OF PRESSURE TO HANDLE?

That's one of the questions I'm asked the most, and I never had a problem with it because I never really felt like there was any pressure and that's probably hard for people to believe but my attitude was that when I was going out on the court that it'd been my dream to play at Wimbledon on Centre Court and I played a lot of my best tennis and got a lot of my best results out there.

Tonic for the troops

By ANNA MANSELL

A booking to sing at a memorial event in honour of Australia and New Zealand's contribution to the First World War at Passchendaele, in Belgium, was Hayley Westenra's first taste of the forces.

"I discovered my family's involvement in the world wars. The people who brought me over for it found that my great great uncle fought at Passchendaele and they showed me his name on a wall of soldiers," she said.

"With that information I really became interested in the armed forces and I was invited to perform at a few events — like the Festival of Remembrance — and went to Iraq for the Poppy Appeal the year before last.

"Meeting people my age out there was eye-opening and since then I have been doing more work to support the forces."

This summer she is on the road with the College Band of the RAF for the Battle of Britain 70th Anniversary Tour, which stops off at Blackburn's King George's Hall next month — furthering her status as a forces' sweetheart.

SONG BIRD: Hayley Westenra

She also has the backing of wartime songbird Dame Vera Lynn, who she says has been 'really supportive'.

Dame Vera's classics We'll Meet Again and the The White Cliffs of Dover feature in the tour, as well as other rousing tunes from the era and a historic narration from the 'Flying Ace' Squadron Leader Tom Jones.

"The RAF band are crucial to this. They are the stars and I'm looking forward to performing with them," said Hayley.

"The band will be playing the more rousing numbers. We're trying to capture the feelings of the time so it'll be a mixture with the more sentimental ones."

Once the tour finishes, Hayley will be back in the studio to record her fourth international album, with Italian composer Ennio Morricone, well-known for iconic film scores including The Good, the Bad and the Ugly.

Do yourself a good turn

You may find it hard to believe, but 2010 has been one of the driest periods for the North West in more than 70 years. This means reservoir levels are much lower than normal.

However, small changes to how you use water can make a big difference.

Turning off the tap when you brush your teeth saves 18 litres every time. Over a year that's enough water to make 40,000 cups of tea.

So do a good turn and help us to keep the water flowing this summer.
